Expansion Program In Canada

Percent An Expenditure Of $2,500,000 On New Building, Machinery And Repairs

OTTAWA—Canada will spend the greatest number of dollars in its history this year for capital equipment at the forecast of the Federal government.

The forecast—an expenditure of $2,500,000,000 on new building, new machinery and repairs to existing equipment—was contained in a report that this year's investment program prepared by the reconstruction

A campaign report, surveying possible projects, indicated that new and older basic materials, such as steel and iron, will be in short supply at the same time by

The report on investments notes that Canada's heavy capital expenditure in the past, have accompanied periods of low level of employment and income was also high.

Estimated aspect of the entire picture, which sweeps broadly over Canada's heavy economy, is to be met and low production. The survey notes that production of both in the country's capacity, that is, it is hardly likely to increase much this year, but that the domestic iron and steel production is likely to increase and all supplies undoubtedly had bearings upon the question.

Production, it notes, will probably be more than the decrease will likely be more than the so far supplies to domestic countries are consumed, by a drop in the British demand for Canadian iron and steel.

These two factors affect Washington, but there the matter is still further complicated by a strong and powerful Jewish sentiment, concentrated mainly in New York.

Behind all this, and inextricably concerned in it, looms the shadow of the U.S.S.R. Yet on this point, there is evidence steps are being taken in one direction at least.

At present, indications are that the State Department is committed to a consideration of rebuilding Japanese industry and possibly the necessity for relating Japanese military potential in Asia.

To deal with the European situation, however, is much more difficult. Excellent as is the Marshall plan, the attempt by the House of Representatives to include "Russia's Spain" within its beneficent aroused violent repercussions in both Paris and London.

At the western entrance to the Mediterranean may have aroused alarming possibilities in the minds of conservative statesmen.

encountered on all sides, including the dimmy of Secretary Marshall himself, promptly put an end to such remarks.

Nevertheless, a time will arrive when a definite policy in opposition to Communist expansion in Europe will have to be formulated, and this may come sooner than is generally expected.

The Jewish problem is insignificant compared to that in Europe, yet, to an extent, is bound up with it. The event of a Communist coup to seize power in Germany following the Italian elections of April 18, could provide the resolute leadership to a United States Policy.

That policy might resemble that of 1878, laid down by Disraeli in Berlin.

And should hostilities break out, the Soviet Union will undoubtedly use the fact that it vitally interests it to send forces to maintain order in the neighborhood." This statement, taken care of the all argument, he says, because should we break out, we will certainly not be available to western Europe or to the United States.

The Arab states, he concludes, are defying the United Nations.

IDEOLOGY "FOURTH R"

Human selfishness is not only the cause of human war but the source of spiritual and economic systems. Capitalism, Socialism and Totalitarianism—based respectively on the ideas of Greed, Regulation and Regulation—based upon Ideology "Three R's". And each, in its own way, is chiefly an attempt to deal with selfishness.

Capitalism says that selfishness can be made a good thing if we hold out the reward of possessions, power or position to give production. It aims to harness man's selfish instincts in a useful way.

Socialism says that selfishness is bad. It aims to remove temptations to be satisfied by removing opportunity for private ownership and thus the chance to gain possessions and the power and position that go with them.

Totalitarianism says that selfishness is unadvisable—that it cannot be indulged as in capitalism, or neutralized as in socialism, so that it will be subdued and the regulation of a dictatorship.

Towards selfishness, regulation, which is true—what is right? The truth is that, after every attempt to harness greed or selfishness, the selfishness itself remains and leads inevitably to more selfishness. It is not to deal with selfishness but to overcome it. The approach to the moral, not selfish or economic, and the main spring of morality is religion.

The democracies attend religion. Totalitarianism has it out. But it is one thing to attend religion and another to practice it. It is in any democratic country a veritable gap the way we have come to a wave of true selfishness across the land.

It is not an argument as to the relative validity and worth of the "three R's". All three would pay to consider the "fourth R"—the selfishness of the individual.

"Fourth-R" of new-born Responsibility—the selfishness of the individual—would be the need for regulation and replace the desire for reform.

1947 Farm Cash Income

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports the 1947 preliminary estimate of Alberta farm cash income from the sale of farm products, including government payments, to be $147,212,000 ($138,688,000). The highest on record for the Dominion, Ontario with a cash income of $244,250,000 ($227,877,000) led the province. Saskatchewan was second with $143,942,000 ($131,645,000). The total for the Prairie Provinces was $777,555,000 ($735,000,000).

Of Alberta's total, $203,176,000 was derived from feed crops; live stock, $102,000,000; farm products, $243,600,000; eggs, wool and honey, $10,218,000; miscellaneous farm products, $8,800,000. Supplementary material (i.e., Prairie Farm Assistance Act and Wheat Acreage Reduction Act, 1947) was $1,000,000. Figures in brackets are for 1946.

HEALTH AT HOME
It's easier and cheaper in the long run to invest in buying a good sewing food, according to nutrition experts. From the Department of Nutrition, Health and Welfare comes a warning that the home where meals consist of heated-up foods and where some of the essential elements are overlooked is likely to produce a family of sick people. Fresh fruits and vegetables, Canada's approved bread and other healthful foods, are the basis for a family happy and healthy.

WANTED, A POLICY

The constant shifting of viewpoint in Washington with regard to the knotty question of Palestine indicates, to outsiders, a lack of settled policy. First, Palestine; then a trusteeship of the United Nations; and now proposals for a truce between Arab and Jew.

With Britain inexorably abiding by a settled policy, though it be merely one of negotiation with the British Army leaves May 15—the United States, having been the initiator of the partition plan, is not being the most powerful Western nation interested in a Palestine settlement, is confronted by a situation having implications not fully solved.

It is quite evident the British foreign office has taken the various aspects of the case into account in its decision to take no further responsibility in the quarrel. Arab susceptibilities

WARNING FROM WELLES
From Summer Welles, former U.S. Under-Secretary of State, came warning in an article in the New York Herald Tribune that the United States has "repeatedly announced its opposition to the United Nations is the foundation of American foreign policy."

"Yet," he said, "because of the failure of the United States to adopt a consistent and courageous policy on Palestine the United Nations is today faced with the gravest dilemma in its history."

Welles pointed out that the decision to partition Palestine was taken after full investigation and that it was in strict accordance with the provisions of the United Nations Charter. He said that the United States was in great part responsible. Dismissing the claim that the growing controversy with Russia might tend to antagonize the Arab states and jeopardize American access to the Middle East, Welles said such arguments "are wholly unwarranted."

He warned that once British forces withdrew, war will result unless the United Nations help the houseless and homeless of the United Nations consubstantial to the peace.
